ProblematISING migration and diaspora governance: From racialised migration control to 'minority' participation

Thursday, 18 June 2020 15:00 (1h 30m)

This panel interrogates the multiple ways in which migrants and diasporas have related to governance and economic practices. How have nations and regional organisations attempted to govern and control the movement of people, through securitising and racialising practices? And how have migrants and diaspora communities challenged such practices by participating in and remaking existing governance practices?
