

Contribution ID: 866

Type: Panel

Security and Sexuality

Wednesday, 15 June 2022 10:45 (1h 30m)

Challenging notions of heteronormativity, this panel builds on the burgeoning conversations between feminist and queer theory in international relations in terms of knowledge production, foreign policy analysis, military and non-military violence(s). Engaging with intersectional concerns, the papers analyse the way gender and sexuality are cross-cut with issues of race, indigeneity, and religion.

Track Classification: Gendering International Relations Working Group