

Contribution ID: 886

Type: Panel

Practices of violence

Friday, June 17, 2022 10:45 AM (1h 30m)

Resistance comes in many different forms, both violent and nonviolent, and is employed by many different actors, ranging from isolated individuals through to organised movements. The papers in this panel explore varied questions around the practices of violence, examining how societies respond to resistance movements; how resistance movements and their leaders seek to mobilise support for their cause; how violent actors use particular tactics as recruitment tools; and how non-state actors seek to exploit emerging technologies.

Track Classification: Political Violence, Conflict and Transnational Activism