

Contribution ID: 126

Type: not specified

Asociación Mexicana de Estudios Internacionales: Pandemics: The Catastrophic Crisis. Transregional governance and the provision of public environmental goods in the Americas

Tuesday, 14 June 2022 16:45 (1h 30m)

Towards the end of 2019 everything of our abnormal life was in its normal course. Until the pandemic. No country knew what to do and how to react. We witnessed different responses and measures, and a horrific quantity of deaths. All this has to be enough to make us, as humanity, to get proactively involved in proposing different solutions and alternative ways of thinking and living, to overcome this and the crises to come. Staying within what we already know, won't work. Prof. Modesto Seara Vázquez, president and founder of the Oaxaca (Mexico) System of Public Universities, coordinated an effort to explore different ways in which the authors would look into the unknown to find a better future for all.

Track Classification: Orphan Papers track