Book Talk: The End of Peacekeeping Gender, Race, and the Martial Politics of Intervention

Thursday, 6 June 2024 15:00 (1h 30m)

This roundtable is focussed around Marsha Henry's new book, The End of Peacekeeping, and invites participants to speak to the interdisciplinary, intersectional and international interventions that the book brings forward. What do participants think about the idea of peacekeeping as an epistemic project? Does peacekeeping rhetoric reinforce binary and problematic notions of sex and gender? How do the martial foundations of peacekeeping mask the colonial desires that continue to persist in humanitarian environments?
