

Contribution ID: 1598

Type: not specified

Emerging Patterns in Digital Norms and Culture

Friday, 7 June 2024 13:15 (1h 30m)

This panel explores how states, communities and international institutions produce, and respond to, changes in digital culture. Risks and opportunities associated with popular forms of entertainment are considered alongside state and international institutional responses to new digital possibilities for social/political organisation and norm formation. The papers cover areas that affect a diverse range of geographic areas, but all with the common aim of understanding the implications of new technologies on populations.

Track Classification: International Studies and Emerging Technologies Working Group