Security governance in policy and practice

Thursday, 19 June 2025 15:00 (1h 30m)

This panel examines the evolving landscape of security governance. It explores how global and regional frameworks adapt to contemporary security challenges, particularly in response to shifting power dynamics and emerging threats. In doing so, it draws attention to a range of governance challenges, and how state and non-state actors have sought to respond to them. This panel critically explores how contemporary security governance adapts to complex, interrelated challenges, reshaping the roles of states, international organizations, and non-state actors in global security.
