

Contribution ID: 1993 Contribution code: FR 20

Type: Panel

Researching in a world on fire: What are we doing?

Friday, 20 June 2025 16:45 (1h 30m)

This panel is a reflection on the role of academics in a world that is facing multiple crises. Participants share an interest in rethinking research and teaching to overcome the multiple, overlapping harms that academia perpetuates. To that end, papers accept that the current research model is harmful, and look to explore alternative ways of teaching, researching, engaging with people, and travelling in the context of climate change and global injustices.

Track Classification: Environment and Climate Politics Working Group