European Security: National Foreign Policies in a Changing Context

Friday, 20 June 2025 09:00 (1h 30m)

In a rapidly changing and declining security environment, European nations are rethinking their approaches to foreign policy and security. At the same time, the political discourse around security is evolving. This panel puts in conversation various national perspectives, all of which analyse civil-society discourse around national foreign policy, as well as leadership strategies and rhetorics.
