Knowledge Politics III (Science, Faith and Myth)

Friday 5 June 2026 09:00 (1h 30m)

This panel is the third of three examining knowledge politics around climate and environmental politics, specifically interrogating the relationship between science, faith and myth. How do we evidence what? What actors are engaged in the knowledge construction process and what hierarchies follow? The papers on this panel work across these questions to understand how scientific authority is constructed, mobilised, and contested across domains of climate policy, environmental governance, and global cooperation.
