Reflecting on the first decade of the journal Critical Military Studies

Wednesday 3 June 2026 10:45 (1h 30m)

The interdisciplinary journal Critical Military Studies was established during 2015 with a remit to challenge military power; a decade on from its first publication, a Special Issue of the journal was commissioned to critically reflect upon its endeavour as an intellectual project. Chaired by one of the Critical Military Studies Special Issue Editors, this Roundtable consists of several authors - from across the academic career stages, from PhD to Professor - involved in the 'CMS@10' Special Issue, including one of the Special Issue's Guest Editors. Each speaker will discuss their contribution to this bespoke collection of articles with a view to facilitating a reflective and constructive conversation about the 10 year anniversary of Critical Military Studies, and ways forward for the journal into the next decade.
